NOTES:

(1) Study area expenditure retention - this is the product of the current market share of study area zones (as a percentage) for comparison shopping and the total study area expenditure. The market share remains constant for each of the forecast years.

(2) Existing Traders - this is the turnover of stores that is derived from study area expenditure only. We have forecast this turnover to increase in line with a PBA estimation of sales density growth

(3) Commitments - this is the turnover of commitments for new floorspace in the study area, which are also assumed to increase at the same rates in note 2 above to account for growth in sales density.

(4) Residual - the product of the total available expenditure minus the deductions for the existing centres' turnover and commitments.

(5) Floorspace Requirement: this is the conversion of the residual expenditure into a floorspace requirement using a sales density estimate of £6,000/sq. m in 2014, which is forecast to increase as per the rates in note 2 until 2031. A 75% net to gross ratio applied (Sourced from Experian Retail Planner Briefing Note 12.1, October 2014). The figures show the floorspace requirement for each period and are not cumulative.

All monetary values are held constant at 2012 prices.

NOTES:

(1) Study area expenditure retention - this is the product of the current market share of Poole and Purbeck zones (as a percentage) for convenience shopping and the total study area expenditure. The market share remains constant for each of the forecast years.

(2) Tourism expenditure - tourism inflow spend figures are derived from 'The Economic Value of Dorset's Visitor Economy 2012' issued in 2014 by the South West Research Company Ltd. (3) Existing Traders - this is the turnover of stores that is derived from study area expenditure only. We have forecast this turnover to increase as follows: 2013-2016 at 0.0% per annum, and 2016-31 at 0.3% per annum.

(4) Commitments - this is the turnover of commitments for new floorspace in the study area, which are also assumed to increase at the same rates in note 2 above to account for growth in sales density.

(5) Residual - the product of the total available expenditure minus the deductions for the existing centres' turnover and commitments.

(6) Floorspace Requirement: this is the conversion of the residual expenditure into a floorspace requirement using a sales density estimate of £12,500/sq. m in 2014, which is forecast to increase as per the rates in note 2 until 2031. A 65% net to gross ratio applied. The figures show the floorspace requirement for each period and are not cumulative.

All monetary values are held constant at 2012 prices.

(1) The figures in the above table are the products of multiplying the data presented in Table 1 (population) by Table 2 (per capita comparison goods expenditure), and are in millions of pounds (£m).

* SFT is derived from the household survey for the propensity for Special forms of trading-based expenditure. the percentage change is grown in line with Experian forecasts of growth in SFT sourced from Experian Retail Planner Note 12 (October 2014) for the forecast years as a proportion of comparison goods sales taken by SFT trading.

All monetary values are held constant at 2012 prices.

NOTES:

(1) Study area expenditure retention - this is the product of the current market share of study area zones (as a percentage) for comparison shopping and the total study area expenditure. The market share remains constant for each of the forecast years.

(2) Existing Traders - this is the turnover of stores that is derived from study area expenditure only. We have forecast this turnover to increase in line with a PBA estimation of sales density growth

(3) Commitments - this is the turnover of commitments for new floorspace in the study area, which are also assumed to increase at the same rates in note 2 above to account for growth in sales density.

(4) Residual - the product of the total available expenditure minus the deductions for the existing centres' turnover and commitments.

(5) Floorspace Requirement: this is the conversion of the residual expenditure into a floorspace requirement using a sales density estimate of £6,000/sq. m in 2014, which is forecast to increase as per the rates in note 2 until 2031. A 75% net to gross ratio applied (Sourced from Experian Retail Planner Briefing Note 12.1, October 2014). The figures show the floorspace requirement for each period and are not cumulative.

All monetary values are held constant at 2012 prices.

NOTES:

(1) The figures in the above table are the products of multiplying the data presented in Table 1 (population) by Table 9 (per capita convenience goods expenditure), and are in millions of pounds (£m).

* SFT is derived from the household survey for the propensity for Special forms of trading-based expenditure. the percentage change is grown in line with Experian forecasts of growth in SFT sourced from Experian Retail Planner Note 12 (October 2014) for the forecast years as a proportion of convenience goods sales taken by SFT trading.

All monetary values are held constant at 2012 prices.

NOTES:

(1) Study area expenditure retention - this is the product of the current market share of Poole and Purbeck zones (as a percentage) for convenience shopping and the total study area expenditure. The market share remains constant for each of the forecast years.

(2) Tourism expenditure - tourism inflow spend figures are derived from 'The Economic Value of Dorset's Visitor Economy 2012' issued in 2014 by the South West Research Company Ltd. (3) Existing Traders - this is the turnover of stores that is derived from study area expenditure only. We have forecast this turnover to increase as follows: 2013-2016 at 0.0% per annum, and 2016-31 at 0.3% per annum.

(4) Commitments - this is the turnover of commitments for new floorspace in the study area, which are also assumed to increase at the same rates in note 2 above to account for growth in sales density.

(5) Residual - the product of the total available expenditure minus the deductions for the existing centres' turnover and commitments.

(6) Floorspace Requirement: this is the conversion of the residual expenditure into a floorspace requirement using a sales density estimate of £12,500/sq. m in 2014, which is forecast to increase as per the rates in note 2 until 2031. A 65% net to gross ratio applied. The figures show the floorspace requirement for each period and are not cumulative.

All monetary values are held constant at 2012 prices.
